For more than five years we have had possession of the "Philippines." During most of that time there has existed therein, a "state of war." Notwithstanding that fact, there has been going on all of the time, an educational element, which has at last overcome most of all the prejudice of the suspicious natives. to-day we are told that "peace

The ravages of war, the legacies of misfortune and bad management by our predecessors in control, and a general state of ignorance prevailing, has made it more than an ordinary task to place those islands in a healthy, programous condition, Little by little, step by step, we have substituted the school nouse for the military post, the thrifty town for the overtaxed and overburdened cross roads, "barrio."

for the overtaxed and overburdened cross roads, "barrio."

It has been the policy of Governor Taft and his associates of the last commission sent there, to employ, educate, encourage and advance the natives just as fast as prudence and safety would permit. Nor have the Filipinos been found wanting in the general duties of government. The great difficulty has been to secure their confidence. They have liked our methods from their first introduction. They have perceived that cleanliness, both of person, home and municipalities have been productive, of good allties have been productive, of good liness, both of person, home and municipalities have been productive, of good health and prosperity.

When they have been taxed, and have had the matter explained that the proceeds were to be used for local improvements, road building and for public schools, and that their own people were to be allowed to work for, carn, and resive most of the money collected by taxition, it has been astonishing with what promptness and almost eagerness they pay their taxes and licenses.

When the provincial and municipal governments were first established, it was the manifest desire of the commission to place as much responsibility in the hands of the "Fillipinos" as his ability to conduce public affairs would warrant. So it is we find: The commission which acts as a Legislature and its individual members as Cablinat officers is composed of five citizens of the United States and three Fillipinos. The Bupreme Court is composed of four citizens of the United States and three Fillipinos, one of the latter being its chief justice. The local, are what serves as the District or Circuit Courts in this country are composed of about an equal number of Americans and Fillipinos, while the justices of the peace, notary publics, and other minor magistrates are nearly all natives.

The education of the young is largely under the direction of teachers from the United States. The colleges are generally under the management of the religious societies owning them.

All the channels of information open

United States, The colleges are generally under the management of the religious societies owning them.

All the channels of information open to the people of the United States are in vogue there, or are in process of development. Like our own country, the principal resources of income are customs and internal revenue. For the first time in the history of that country, a land tax is being established. They have some taxes unknown to us, but as they are accustomed to them they are continued. The fact that revenue must be derived from one source or another, and if they like the "Cedula" or head tax, it is thought best to continue it, rather than enforce the regular "poli tax" of this country, which though a "Rose by another name," would be oftensive to them. Thus from an almost barren waste has sprung up a country with an incom e good of the several communities the commission reports, the civil service roster, and the general register of em-

NEW FOUND RIVER

AGAIN DISCOVERED

Reclaimation Work by the William Nelson Farmers' Club.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) MONTPELIER, VA., August 29.-In the upper end of Hanover county, is a stream known as "New Found River. "It has its source in Louisa county and flows into South Anna River.

When Captain John Smith was explor

When Captain John Smith was exploring this part of the country, accompanied by Indian guides, they discovered this river. The first guide who came to the stream exclaimed "New Found River." Thus it received the name by which it has been known since that time.

This river flows through flats of the most fertile kind of alluvial soil. These flats extend its entire length, and vary in breadth from a few hundred yards to more than a mile.

When the country was first settled, these flats were worthless areas, covered with water and forest trees, shrubs and weeds of every description. About fifty or sixty years ago the farmers owning land along the river began to clear up, drain and culivate this land, and for a while it seemed almost invaluable, Much of it would easily produce from while it seemed almost invaluable. Much of it would easily produce from one hundred too ne hundred and fifty hushels of corn per acre, and sold for as much as $100 per acre (a remarkably high price for land at that time, especially in a remote locality).

After cultivating this land for a number of years the channel of the river began to fill up, chiefly on account of the sand which came down from the hillsides, the land became more and more sobbed, until now a greater portion of it is as untenable as it was before it was first cleared; the ditches have filled up and trees and shrubs have taken possession.

first cleared; the ditches have filled up and trees and shrubs have taken possession.

"The William Nelson Farmers' Club," an organization of farmers in Hanover, seeing this valuable land wasted or going to waste, began to discuss the subject. Soon a movement was put on foot for the purpose of widening, deepening and straightening the channel of the river. Bubscriptions were taken up and the work was contracted for and began some time ago, and under the supervision of this club the work is progressing satisfactorily. When completed the channel will have been cleared and cut for about six miles.

This channel will have been cleared and cut for about six miles.

Thus, if the farmers' club can accomplish the idea they have in view, it will be of great benefit to the land owners in this locality. The next regular meeting of the club will be indeed on Saturdy. September 26th, at "Hickory Bottom," a farm owned by a wealthy Northern yndicate, and superintended by Mr. R. L. Taylor, a member of the club.

This farm lies along the river for about a mile.

The Returns for the Fiscal Last Year.

A GRATIFYING SHOWING

Remarkable Increase in the Output of Cigars, Cigarettes and Plug Tobacco for the Fiscal Year Closed June 30, 1903.

The returns of the United States Reve-

The returns of the United States Revenue Department on manufactured tobacco and cigars for the fiscal year ending June 30th, show the trade to be in a remarkably healthy and satisfactory condition, the year being a record one in several of the most important branches.

The Western Tobacco Journal in its exhaustive review of the frade for the year, and compilations of the figures, says:

"The figures of the total are from Washington and may be relied on with the greatest confidence. The figures of the output of the several districts are obtained from the collectors of each district, and in some few cases are subject to revision, but, on the whole they may be taken as but, on the whole they may be taken as correct. More than ordinary care has been exercised to obtain accurate results. In every line except small cigars the year 1802-1903 shows a greater gain than did the previous year over its predecessor.

"In percentage of increase the output of cigarettes shows the greatest gain, but this branch, of course, does not approach in importance the manufacture or smoking and chewing tobacco and of cigars."

THE OUTPUT OF CIGARS.

"The cigar production has been unparalleled during the fiscal year. Such tramendous results could hardly have been credited at the beginning of the year. That the output would be large could readily be expected from the generally active business conditions prevailing, but that the total should so greatly exceed last year, would hardly have been thought. "The total production of cigars was (7.80,839.83, against $102,697.85 for the previous fiscal year. This is an increase of $22,770.778 or more than 10 per cent. and also means an increase of more than 20,000 (legars for every working day of the year. Small wonder that the cigar dealers and manufacturers had a prosperous year, with a consumption of such magnitude.

"In 1870 the total number of tax-paid cigars was only one-sixth of the present total.
"One of the prominent features of the

"The production of small cigars has fallen off considerably, in fact, the total falls below the output of the year ending June 30, 100, and the difference between the output this year and the years ending June 30, 100 and 1002, is even greater as will be seen further on.

"Many accept the belief that the call for small cigars has gone over to cigartetes. This is probably true in the main. But it would seem that if that were true to an unusual degree the increase in the production of cigarettes would have shown a greater percentage. A more shown a greater percentage. A more likely interpretation would be that a portion of the demand for small cigars has developed into a demand for full-sized cigars, while the major portion has been diverted to cigarettes.

TOBACCO.

"For the first time the tobacco production exceeds 300,000,000 pounds for the fiscal year. The excess in production over the figures of the preceding year was all made during the first half of the fiscal year. On January 1 the increase had risen to 30,012,193 pounds, but the last half of the fiscal year has seen the increase steadily dwindle, until now it approximates 12,500,600 pounds.

CRUSHES

serpent sinks its fangs into the flesh and almost instantly the poison passes through the entire body. Contagious Blood Poison, beginning with a little through the entire body. Contagious Blood Poison, beginning with a little ulcer, soon contaminates every drop of blood and spreads throughout the whole system. Painful swellings appear in the groins, a red rash and copper colored splotches break out on the body, the mouth and throat become ulcerated, and the hair and eye brows fall out; but these symptoms are mild compared to the wretchedness and suffering that come in the latter stages of the disease when it attacks the bones and more vital parts of the body. It is then that Contagious Blood Poison is seen in all its hideousness. The deep eating abscesses and sickening ulcers and tumors show the whole system is corrupted and poisoned, and unless relief comes soon this serpent disease tightens its coils and crushes out the life. The only antidote for the awful virus is S. S. S. It is nature's remady, composed entirely of vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. destroys every vestige of the poison, purifies the blood and removes all danger of transmitting the awful taint to others. Nothing else will do this. Strong mineral remedies, like mercury and potash, dry up the sores and drive in the disease, but do not cure permanently. Send for our home treatment book and write us if in need of medical advice or special information. This will cost you nothing.
